ABOUT DIANNE WINBANKS

Dianne Winbanks is the author of Lauren's Creed: Wings to Fly and Chief Enabling Officer of Wings To Fly Education Consultancy Services. Dianne has studied extensively and educated students in a range of settings since starting her teaching career in 1986. However, nothing prepared her for the learning curve that was required upon the birth of her twins, in 1995, one of whom was later diagnosed with autism and an intellectual disability. Dianne believes "the core mission is to set people up to succeed" and that "the path to success lies in understanding the young person".

ENDORSEMENT

"Our thanks and appreciation to Dianne Winbanks for guiding us through a huge transition for my 8 year old son, as he started another new primary school (3rd school in as many years). The creation of a beautifully told storybook about my son enabled students, teachers and parents who make up the school community to embrace my child's differences. 'Put On Your Cape - A story of a boy who is no ordinary Superhero' generated awareness about my child and his different needs, without resorting to labels. This book is now a permanent resource that continues to foster understanding, including for my son as he learns to understand himself! Thanks to Dianne, Laura Phypers (writer) and Anne Kucera (illustrator) who worked on this positive, empowering initiative!
